Dandelion College Well Attended

A very successful weekend school was held in the Coleman Catholic hall from Friday, Feb. 13 to Sunday, Feb. 15 for the purpose of establishing a vigorous and active organization among the Catholic Youth of the Blainmore Diocese. This endeavor was termed "Dandelion" is a dandelion, because like a dandelion, it digs its roots of activity and organization deeply, like the dandelion, it spreads itself in every locality. The Dandelion College makes no pretence of being a purely social organization. That factor, while being important, is by no means the end and purpose of its establishment. Stress is rather placed on the spiritual, apostolic and educational aspects of development of the Catholic Youth.

The Dandelion College was under the able direction of Fr. Frank Mackay of Canmore, who has been appointed Diocesan director of Catholic Youth Clubs throughout the Diocese by His Excellency, Most Rev. F. P. Carroll, Bishop of the Diocese. Fr. Pat O'Byrne of Claresholm, who is the instigator of the Dandelion movement lent the valuable assistance of his years of experience in this work and his help added greatly to the success of the endeavor. Father O'Byrne has organized and carried to successful conclusions five successive summer schools of Catholic Youth based on the Dandelion program. His annual school held yearly in Banff in July is proof of the efficiency of such avenues of educational, spiritual, apostolic and social programs specifically adapted to the needs of youth.

Also on the staff of the weekend Dandelion College were Fr. Paul O'Byrne of Medicine Hat, Fr. W. Leonard of St. Anthony's in Calgary, Fr. F. Mangan of St. Anne's in Calgary and Fr. Bernard Holland of Belleville-Hillcrest. The College was presided over by the Very Rev. Sullivan, V.F., Dean of Blainmore.

Registration was held in the Coleman Catholic hall on Friday evening and the very next morning 96 young people of the district were on hand to begin sessions. Also present and very helpful were delegates from Calgary, Lethbridge and Medicine Hat, who by having already had such schools in their own parishes were able to assist greatly in the conduct of the various sessions panels and discussions. As the days of the school advanced, the enrollment increased so greatly that sessions had to be transferred to the Turtle Mountain Playgrounds where the 200 youth took part in the activities of the school throughout Sunday.

The Dandelion College came to a magnificent close with an admirable address by Father Pat O'Byrne, and exercises of Graduation for the various students in the groups of the spiritual, educational, apostolic and social programs. Students attended in large numbers from Coleman, Blainmore, Belleville, Hillcrest, Cowley, Brooks, Pincher Creek and Twin Butte. It is hoped that an active Catholic Youth group in the Pass will be the result of the deliberations where the Hon. E. C. Manning, Premier of Alberta, today called upon all Alberta municipalities to contribute to the European Flood Relief Fund.

FLOOD RELIEF FUND

Mr. Manning, announcing the Alberta government's support of the fund, said that money is needed urgently to relieve the distress of thousands of people made homeless by the storms and floods which struck England, The Netherlands and other European countries early in February.

Premier Manning requested the mayors and Reeves of all Alberta municipalities to announce the existence of the Flood Relief Fund and urge the public's support. He emphasized that the appeal for funds is not a Red Cross appeal but the Canadian Red Cross will be the administrative arm of the committee for the distribution of assistance through its International Red Cross channels.

... Youth will receive not only Social entertainment but will gain by study and discussion the development of their Catholic life, so that the Church in this district will be able in years to come to look to the graduates of such schools for real leadership in the cause for which she stands.

A Powerful Piece Of Paper

That's all it is — just a piece of paper. You can look it over, rip it and its no different than any other piece of paper.

But comes a certain time, it comes to life and turns into a piece of paper more powerful than we realize. No other piece of paper can equal it.

It has three important years involved. What those three years will cost you... what they will bring you depends upon this piece of paper.

This piece of paper is your ballot. It comes to life when you vote next Monday. It's just a piece of paper. It doesn't mean a thing that you don't make it mean.

What do you want it to mean? Do you feel that it is just a scrap of paper not worth your time and trouble? Or do you look upon it as a symbol of our way of life... our liberty, freedom of speech, and selection of those who govern us.

If you want it to mean all those things that makes life worth living you must consider the power and value of the ballot and turn out on election day. With trouble stirring the world to day each and everyone should honor our heritage in the right to vote free. No greater chance to show our pride in the democratic system is given us than to express our wishes by means of free elections, whether it be municipal or federal.

Now is as good as time as any to reevaluate our opinion of the right to vote in a free manner. Now is the time to turn out to the polls in record numbers.

Coleman Midgets smared Pincher Creek 13-2 at the local arena Thursday night to consolidate 2nd place in the C.N.P. League. This was the fifth win for the Kryczka coached team, losing only two games to Bellevue.

Coleman played disorganized hockey during the first leading 2-1 hit a faster pace in the 2nd to go ahead 7-2 and peppered the Pincher net minder to close the contest at 13-2. Pincher led a fast skating team that showed plenty of hockey savvy but showed a weakness in goal. Coleman sharpshooters soon realized the weakness and continually fired rubber at the goal.

Red Cross Quota $1000

At a public Red Cross meeting Feb. 18, Mrs. Frank Graham was chosen to represent the local group at the Red Cross Provincial convention at Calgary Feb. 19 and 20.

Mrs. Laura Johnston, speaking on the Junior Red Cross, said that there are four organized groups in Central school and three in Cameron school. The Junior high school students are now busy preparing a concert to be held in the school auditorium in March, all proceeds for the Red Cross Hospital Children's Hospital in Calgary.

Wilfred Dutil, campaign chairman reported that Coleman would have a target of $1,000 for the March campaign. During campaign month last year the town was canvassed by members of the Elks lodge, who should be commended on a job well done. It is hoped that they will take the task on again this year.

For the purpose of the Flood Relief are now being taken at the local bank.

Supplies for Women's Work will soon be on hand. Volunteer knitters and sewers are badly needed and will be welcomed.

Intermediate Playoffs

It is probable but not certain that Great Falls and Grands will meet in playoffs here on Saturday. Watch for notices.

AN APPEAL TO ALL!

The Canadian National European Flood Relief Committee under the chairmanship of His Excellency the Governor General has launched an unlimited appeal for funds to help relieve the distress of flood sufferers.

There will be no national canvassing organization. Individuals, organizations and business firms are urged to make their donations through Branches of all chartered banks which will issue receipts valid for income tax purposes. All Post Offices will accept direct contributions by Postal Order, and similar arrangements have been made for Express Money Orders.

This is not a Red Cross appeal, but the Canadian Red Cross will be the administrative arm of the Committee for the distribution of assistance through its International Red Cross channels.

At present the appeal is for funds only. All requests for assistance from the fund will be checked by Red Cross Societies, Foreign Government Agencies and Canadian Embassies overseas.

The need is great. Your generous help is urgently requested.

AMNESIA VICTIM IS REUNITED WITH FAMILY—Thirty-four years ago Napoleon Mayotte of Ottawa left his home to buy some groceries. He never returned to it until recently, when he was reunited with his wife and daughter, seen above. A victim of amnesia in September of 1919, Mr. Mayotte, now 73, made his way to Winnipeg, where he was hospitalized for injuries received in First World War. After working his way to Vancouver, he was again hospitalized and then sent to veterans' hospital in Toronto. Upon his release, he worked as an orderly for 21 years at a civilian hospital in Toronto until poor health sent him to Sunnybrook hospital for veterans. It was there that a chaplain located him and notified his family, who all this time were trying to locate him. In the brief period when his memory returned, Mr. Mayotte was trying to locate them, too, but they had moved several times since his attack of amnesia. —Central Press Canadian.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

ONE BIG MISTAKE

Now, Nedra Heard What She Expected Two Years Ago.

By Bascom Biggers III

IT WAS Jim's voice on the telephone. After two years! Jim, the man she had loved and lost. "I'm back, Nedra," he said. Her heart raced wildly and she could think of nothing witty or sparkling. "Oh, Jim, Jim, it's good to hear your voice again!" He laughed happily. "I've missed that dollface of yours. Can we have dinner tomorrow night?"

Dollface! She hurried to the mirror when she hung up, and his words were like a mockery. What a cruel thing a mirror could be to a woman in her forties, particularly a once beautiful woman. Her hair was a mass of gray, "salt and pepper" they called it. "I should never have stopped having it dyed," she told herself.

Then her fingers touched the lines on her forehead. She sighed. Why had she ever let herself go? How well she knew the answer. She would never forget Jim's last good-bye. Even then, through her tears, she had to laugh at the irony of hearing good-bye when she had expected a proposal.

If she had been a younger woman she was certain it would have been different. That had been the trouble all along, she knew. She was Jim's wife, but men were so foolish, they always wanted a young kitten of an age. He had said he didn't mind that she was a widow, so it had to be that she wasn't young enough. And she had tried so hard to be, all that year she had known him.

She had gone to the beauty parlor countless times to have her hair done. She had watched her face to make certain the wrinkles weren't apparent. And she had dressed and acted young, cutting up in the gayest sort of way when she wanted to be serious and mature.

She had known he would be leaving for England soon, but had been certain she would be going with him as his wife. And then that shattering last night.

"Nedra," he said, and his eyes were warm.

"Yes, Jimmy," she said, her heart fluttering.

"Tonight is good-bye."

"Darling, what do you mean?"

"Nedra, you've been a wonderful playmate," he said, taking her hand in his. "With you there's never a dull moment. I'm going to miss you. I wish things might have been different—once I thought—I mean—"

"What, Jimmy?"

"Nothing," he said. "We've had a wonderful time. We don't want to ruin it by getting mushy now, do we?"

"No, Jim," she said, choking down the sob. "We don't want to ruin it now."

That had been their farewell. And he wasn't the kind to write. A card now and then, that was all.

With him gone there was no reason to maintain the illusion of youth.

There was no one else she loved or wanted.

It had seemed strange at first, a little like a vacation not to worry about looking twentyish, the way she walked or the sparkling thing to say.

And now he was back. But he would never even look at her twice now, the way she looked. Dollface! She tried to think instead of cry.

If she hurried she could have her head dyed and a facial, and maybe—

Not! She wouldn't do it. In two years she had done a lot of thinking. She wasn't a girl anymore. She was a grown woman in love with a grown man, and if he didn't want her as his wife, . . . Better to end it for once and all.

Her hand trembled as she opened the door the next night, and then there was Jim and she was in his arms.

He pushed her back to arm's length.

"Nedra!" he said. "Is it really you?" His eyes were shining.

"I'm afraid it is, Jim. Are you really disappointed?"

"You—you're lovely," he said. "Sweet and lovely, just as I always—"

—oh, Nedra, but where's Dollface?" She started to cry. From the haven of his arms, she heard him say, "And I thought you were a perennial party girl with nothing serious . . ."

Every woman—and every man—was entitled to one big mistake. She thought happily when, now, she heard what she'd expected two years ago.

Elk Being Moved To New Forage Area

CALGARY.—The annual movement of elk from southern Alberta's Kananaskis game reserve to new forage areas is under way, with a helping hand from the Calgary Fish and Game Association.

The association's big game committee, with the approval of the provincial government, has for the last four years transported elk from the reserve to new ranges where the animals will have a better chance to survive and multiply.

The association hopes the herds will expand in a few years to the point where they will provide good hunting.

Twenty-five animals have already been moved this year. They were caught on the game reserve, west of Canmore, Alta., and transported by truck to the Aura district of the Bow river forest reserve, just north of the Little Red river. Canmore is about 60 miles west of here.

About 100 animals may be moved this year.

Helpful Hints

For wallpaper that has been scratched, moisten a scrap of the paper which has been scratched and carefully scrape off the covering with a thin knifeblade. Apply this to the scratch and when dry, the mark will not be noticeable.

It is unwise to attempt to wash the curtains as soon as they have been taken down. Place them in cold water to which a generous handful of borax has been added and let them remain soaking overnight. This will loosen the dirt and the washing will be much easier.

Instead of greasing the aluminum griddle when frying pancakes on it, rub it with a tablespoonful of salt tied in a piece of cotton cloth. Be sure that the griddle is hot and entirely free of grease.

Show proper consideration of the welfare of others by covering your mouth and nostrils with a handkerchief when you sneeze. Health authorities state that germs can jump eight or ten feet if the sneeze is allowed to go out into the room. Be sure to protect others and cover your sneezes.

Do You Know That . . .

Race horses run about 45 miles an hour compared with antelopes, which can hit speeds up to 62 miles an hour.

THE TILLERS

Training School Has Given Men Fighting Chance

EDMONTON.—Ever since Canadians started flying they have flown the northland—a hostile land, which until a few years ago, took a steady toll of lives either through crashes, starvation or death by freezing.

The R.C.A.F. through its survival training school, is seeing to it that its men have a fighting chance for life if forced down in the Arctic.

Heading the school is Spinn. Ldr. Scott Alexander, a former member of the R.C.M.P. and one of Canada's top experts on the north. Chief instructor is Flt. Lt. Reg Goodey, also a former R.C.M.P. officer and veteran of many years in the Arctic.

The school was started in January, 1949, and now handles about 2,000 students a year.

Survival training is divided into two phases: The bush phase which is operated year-round near Lake Obed, Alta., 160 miles west of Edmonton, and the Arctic phase conducted near Cambridge Bay, 1,000 miles north.

Students for Arctic training are flown into Cambridge Bay in mid-winter and landed on an ice strip. They then trek five miles into the barrens to the camp. Each man carries a survival kit, a "must" for crew members flying over the Arctic. They learn to build igloos, windbreaks and snowbanks.

They also are taught to live off the land through fishing and hunting to supplement their emergency rations. One of the top items on the curriculum is how to attract attention of search parties. The men remain a week and then are flown out.

The R.C.A.F. is determined to eliminate any possibility of recurrence of an incident early in the war when a seven-man crew died of starvation and exposure within six miles of an Eskimo settlement.

Front-Porch Farming

Foresees Future When Tractor Farming Controlled By Dials

WINNIPEG.—Instead of sweating over a hot tractor the prairie farmer of the future will be able to relax on his front porch, twirl a few dials, and watch his atomic-powered tractor do all the field work without anyone at the wheel. Fantastic? . . . Perhaps, but according to Melvin Cunningham, Red Deer, Alta., tractors powered with some form of atomic energy are a definite possibility within the "not too far distant future."

As for remote control of farm implements, the "know-how and equipment for the job is already available."

Purchase of such equipment, Mr. Cunningham reported, is possible only on large farms where it represents a good investment for the operator.

Mr. Cunningham, retiring president of the Canadian Federation of Farm Equipment dealers, was in Winnipeg recently to attend the annual directors meeting of the association.

Other revolutionary farm equipment changes forecast by Mr. Cunningham included:

1. Machines to apply antibiotics to soils to aid in plant and animal growth.

2. Units to be used for more direct farm-processing of foods so as to reduce transportation costs.

3. Jet-powered tractors and trucks.

4. Equipment for the application to soils of high frequency electronics for the control of weeds and insect pests.

Returning to the present, Mr. Cunningham said the outlook for sale of farm equipment for the first half of 1953 was "exceptionally good."

He was "hopeful" that sales for the year would approach the 1952 total of more than $300,000,000, down slightly from the all-time record of $325,000,000 established in 1951.

The drop in sales in 1952, he said, was largely due to a $65,000,000 drop in farm income from the previous year.

Although the steel supply situation is the "best since the war," Mr. Cunningham said farm equipment manufacturers still could not get enough to fill orders for all types of equipment immediately.

S. B. Bedell, Simcoe, Ont., said farmers today were rapidly switching to diesel-powered tractors and hydraulically-controlled, mounted and attached implements.

Mr. Bedell, newly elected president of the association, said farmers preferred hydraulic controls because they simplified implement operations and reduced accidents caused by

Farmer Explains Cow Milking

TORONTO.—G. A. McCullough has a distinctive handshake—the kind that comes from a lifetime of milking cows.

The white-haired dairyman from Savan, near Ottawa, has always milked his 35-cow herd by hand.

Here's his procedure:

"You start at the top and press down one finger after the other, like playing a finger exercise on the piano. Only you do it real fast."

Mr. McCullough, who started his herd by breeding the single cow he owned in 1905, said he has just sold his farm and herd. But not before one of his Holsteins this year captured the gold ribbon certificate of the Holstein-Friesian Association.

Mr. McCullough is attending the association's annual convention here.

A RARE VISITOR

LAC DU BONNET, Man.—Residents were surprised to see a large swan swimming on the Winnipeg river near here. The bird is almost unknown in this part of the province, and old-timers say they never see one in mid-winter.

Council News

Council met in regular meeting last Tuesday night all present with the exception of Councillor Jenkins.

A by-law is to be brought in regarding the new power rate, setting $2.70 for the first 20 k.w.h. and 1 1/2¢ for kilowatt over 20; $2.70 minimum with 30¢ discount for prompt payment. Old age pensioners under means test will receive a reduction of $1.00 from the minimum.

It is the Lions' intention to remodel and repair the building to serve as a Scout and Cub hall. Council decided that the Scouts would be given the first chance if the town does not require the building.

It was decided that the Red Cross be allowed to use the Council chambers as temporary quarters.

Entertaining Evening Feature of Box Social

A gay and successful Box Social was held Feb. 20 in the United church club room by the Couples Club.

Cecil Coover was greatly applauded for his rendition of "I'm 94 Today" and "The Road to the Isle". Mrs. Isabel Splevak accompanied him on the piano. A skit by Robt. Woods "European Model", starring Eddy Ledieu, brought roars of laughter from the audience. A quartette, comprised of Rose Watson, Edith and Cy Bryant and Leslie Owen sang "A Little Talk with Jesus" and "Jericho Road". Emily Owen was accompanist for this group of singers. Everyone enjoyed the lovely voices blending in harmony on these songs spirituals. Two unknown members of the Winnipeg Ballet presented the Bowl and Pitcher Dance.

Contests and community singing preceded the auction of boxes.

This was the first Box Social held in Coleman for many years, but the boxes showed real talent and originality. There were boxes like tiny wheelbarrows, and cottages; another was a doll with a large paper costume. Hearts, cupid and flowers decorated the colorful donations and the auctioneers Evan Gushul and Mel Dunford were rushed with sales.

Contest winners were Helen Muspratt, Irene Coover and Norma Lowe. A lovely dark brown paper mache basket of pink flowers was donated by Mrs. Steve Krzywy and auctioned to the women present.

The Couples Club appreciates the co-operation of all who helped with this effort for the organ fund.

THRILLS of the ROARIN' GAME

Now You Know What A Rink Is

Curling is a game played by four men—the lead, second stone, third (sometimes called the mate) and skip. The term "mate" comes from the old expression, "one man's mate is another man's prize".

The lead is just what his title implies. He throws the first two stones then sweeps the next six. In his opinion he is the most important man on the rink. To the others, he is there because the game calls for four men.

The second stone attempts to knock out the rocks which by some manner of luck his opponent has placed in the house.

The third is usually a retired skip or an up and coming junior who figures he should be skip himself. He knows more than the skip and argues on each shot the skip wants to make, then slaps places the broom where he wants it the minute the skip turns his back.

If the shot misses, the mate turns to the gallery with a shrug that implies the skip is stupid and didn't tell him it should have been made the other way.

The skip never sweeps except to make a few half-hearted swipes at a stone that appears to be a bit tight.

NOT TOO FAST!

"It is customary for the new curler to take the lead's or first man's position on a rink, not because it is the least important position, for it is not, but as most of the shots are 'draws'.

It provides him with an opportunity to develop this basic shot, and at the same time to learn the game. It should be realized that "top-notch" curlers are the product of a gradual development, which can be hastened by study and practice. Playing at least two years in each position is time well spent; in fact, there is no better way of getting "nowhere" than by jumping from lead to third or second to skip. Don't stunt your growth as a curler." — From Jim Weyman's "Analysis of the Art of Curling".

The better class rinks sometimes play for a dead end rather than count only one shot with their last rock as it would again be theirs on the next end. This is, of course, based on the theory that your players will set up a better end, and count more, next time.

Funny and Otherwise

She was a good kindergarten teacher because she knew how to make the little things count.

A business man was asked to give his definition of an expert. His answer was succinct and definite: "An expert is one who can complete simplicity."

Edna: "You would hardly know Freddy since he got back from America. He lost all his money there and—"

Evlyn: "Hardly know him! Why, I shan't know him at all!"

Jones: I wish my wife were a dentist.

Homes: Why so?

Jones: I'd love to hear her say to me, "Open your mouth," instead of her usual, "Shut up!"

Court clerk (in dentist's chair): "Now, do you swear to pull the tooth, the whole tooth, and nothing but the tooth?"

"There isn't another cook like my wife in the world. Come to think of it, though, some of the cooks I met in the Army weren't much better."

First ant—What's the idea all the footcraze about that new box of cereal?

Second ant—Can't you read? It says "Tear along the dotted line."

The new vicar had preached his first sermon, and a critical member of the church, an exceedingly fat man, layd him after the service.

"Not a bad beginning, sir," he said, patronizingly; "a bit too scientific and modern, perhaps, but quite fair. Remember, parson, you must feed the sheep, feed the sheep."

The vicar surveyed his bulky critic, and replied, "My dear man, it's exercise you need, not food."

A recruit was causing his sergeant a lot of trouble. Finally the NCO went up to him and said sarcastically: "Do you realize you are the only one in step?"

"Well," said the recruit, "it's no good telling me—you'd better tell the other fellows!"

"Look at the way baby is working his mouth," exclaimed Mrs. Newman. "Now he proposes to put his foot in it."

"Hm," replied her husband. "Hereditary. That's what I did when I proposed."

"I see you have a sign in your shop. 'We aim to please,'" remarked the customer.

"Certainly," replied the shopkeeper. "That's our motto."

"Well," said the customer, "you ought to take a little time off for target practice."

Princess Margaret To Get Own Home

LONDON.—Princess Margaret, 22, was disclosed as planning a new "home" for a private entrance.

It is a small apartment being made for her out of the old nursery at Clarence House. Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip lived there before the death of King George VI.

The flat will have several spacious rooms overlooking Pall Mall, a tiled bathroom, and a small kitchen. It will have a separate entrance by elevator from a side door.

The apartment should be finished by the time the Royal Family comes back from Sandringham, informants said.

The word "daily" originated from the name of a London paper of the 18th century. 3024

Alberta Has Set New High Record With Wheat Crop

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. — Southern Alberta production of new wealth in 1952 reached an all-time high of $173,400,000 in the area served by the C.P.R. Lethbridge division.

This was an increase of $41,000,000 over 1951 and $23,500,000 higher than the previous record in 1948, a bumper crop year.

The big item, as usual was wheat which produced $81,800,000. The biggest increases were shown in other grains and in hay and feed. Both these categories showed boosts of 50 per cent. The "other grains" net $27,700,000 and hay and feed at $6,000,000.

There was only one decrease—cattle and hogs. This industry was plagued by the foot-and-mouth outbreak in Saskatchewan. Production value was down almost $5,000,000 at $17,450,000.

The wheat crop at a 26.5-bushel an acre average amounted to 56,300,000 bushels. The coarse grain, rye and flax crop ran 28,725,000 bushels in 1952.

CALGARY.—The Calgary zoo is helping the Moose Jaw wild animal park to build a bigger and better collection. In addition to three monkeys, the Calgary zoo planned to ship a female leopard. In turn, Calgary got a raccoon, horned owls and rare hawks recently.

PEGGY

SASKATOON, Sask. — University training on a mass basis for student nurses is being introduced here for the first time in North America.

The program, sponsored by the Saskatchewan Government, seeks to improve the standards of instruction in the basic sciences for student nurses.

It will help relieve a teacher shortage in Saskatchewan nursing schools, will bring together students from all parts of the province and will make the full resources of a university available to them.

The nurses will spend 16 weeks at the University of Saskatchewan or at Regina College. The program is separate from the five-year nursing degree course offered by the Saskatchewan university.

Prof. Hazel B. Keeler, director of the university school of nursing, will co-ordinate the provincial program. University lecturers will give instruction, and the laboratories, library and classrooms, as well as other university facilities, will be available to the students.

A nursing science class is being evolved to assemble in usable form scientific facts and principles related to nursing techniques and procedures.

As a result of the course, nurses will receive wider and more comprehensive training in subjects such as sociology, mental hygiene, microbiology and anatomy.

The program has been approved for an experimental period of five years, with initial planning to cover the first three years.

Airport Base Is Opening Up Isolated Area

COLD LAKE, Alta. — Huge sums of money are being spent in this formerly isolated area of northeastern Alberta, 180 miles northeast of Edmonton.

Cold Lake has been chosen by the defence department as the base for a new $30,000,000 airport and bombing and rocket range which will straddle the Alberta-Saskatchewan boundary.

Hundreds of people are moving in to take advantage of the district's new-found prosperity.

New hotels and hundreds of homes have been built and the Canadian National Railways are pushing a line into Cold Lake. An all-weather road has been completed and ample electric power is available.

The airport, five miles from the town, will include one of the largest hangars in Western Canada. Tenders, estimated at $10,000,000 have been called for construction of 21 other buildings. They will house staff and residents unofficially estimated at between 3,000 and 4,000 persons.

LARGEST TURBINE

VANCOUVER. — Believed the largest hydraulic turbine in the world, a turbine capable of generating 150,000 horsepower was built here for the Kitimat aluminum project. The turbine will ultimately serve other industries in the area. The builders say one steel section, weighing 31 tons, is the largest casting ever made in Western Canada.

COULD GET PLACES

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE, Alta. — A pig with seven feet was brought to market by a farmer from the Bingley district. The pig had the usual four legs, but there were two feet each on the front legs and on one of the rear legs. The pig appeared healthy in every respect.

I.O.D.E. BURSARIES

WINNIPEG. — The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire will award 11 bursaries worth $1,600 each this year to children of deceased or disabled armed forces personnel. One bursary will be awarded in each province and one in the Yukon.

Farmers Think Cow's Horns No Longer Useful

REGINA.—A cow's horns once served a useful purpose but western farmers, concerned with shipping and other problems, now regard them as a nuisance. Hornless cattle are gaining in favor.

Now horned animals are penalized. In Saskatchewan a fund has been built up by docking $2 from the sale price of each horned animal put through the stockyards. In Alberta the penalty is $1.

A delegation representing farmers of the province recently discussed with the Alberta government possible measures aimed at reducing the number of horned cattle.

In Saskatchewan and Alberta money obtained from penalties is used by the provincial governments for livestock improvement such as assistance to purchasers of commercial bulls and in artificial breeding work.

Horned cattle, in shipping and in stockyards, use their horns to bruise and tear other cattle. The penalties are designed to encourage stockmen to dehorn their animals.

Dehorning can be done in calfhood by rubbing a chemical preparation over the budding horns or "buttons". Saws and similar dehorning instruments are used on adult cattle with horns.

Some cattle, such as the Aberdeen-Angus, have been bred hornless for generations. And the time may come when most cattle are born hornless. The trend toward "polled" animals is spreading. But at present the majority of breeders of dairy cattle still bring out their animals with horns.

Ornithopter Is New Type Of Flying Machine

MEDICINE HAT, Alta.—A flying machine with moving wings is ready for a trial flight at this southeastern Alberta city.

Called an ornithopter, the 280-pound machine made of metal and balsa wood has two sets of wings.

"It will be the closest approximation to bird flight ever designed by man," said James E. Caldwell, the inventor-engineer.

It was constructed by Hartley D. Shannon a Medicine Hat business man who is an aeronautical engineer. It will be piloted by William Francis of Medicine Hat Air Services on its test flights.

"In principle," said Mr. Shannon, "if this model is what we hope it is, the cost of air transport would be cut down to the cycle class."

In appearance the "flier" is radical in design from modern airplanes, helicopters and gliders.

Its main feature consists of the four wings or flaps which simulate a bird's locomotive and gliding power. Each wing is eight feet long and five feet from front to tail edge.

The pilot sits from front and there are two wings on each side of the wings. The wings move both up and down from normal position. Behind the pilot's seat is a 12-horsepower motor which Mr. Shannon says is more than ample for the lifting power required.

The "withers" of a horse is the ridge between the shoulder bones.

National Hockey League

Rookies Eligible For
Calder Memorial Trophy

Toronto Maple Leafs have more candidates for the Calder Memorial Trophy this season than any other N.H.L. club. The Leafs have seven members of their team eligible for the award which goes annually to the player selected by a panel of 18 hockey writers and broadcasters as the outstanding first-year performer in the National Hockey League.

New York Rangers follow the Leafs in number of candidates with five. Boston Bruins have four eligible rookies. Detroit Red Wings have three candidates. Chicago Black Hawks have one, while the Montreal Canadiens do not have a single rookie candidate this year.

Following is the list of Calder Memorial Trophy eligibles:

Toronto Maple Leafs—George Armstrong, Gordon Hanigan, Ron Stewart, Bob Hassard, Leo Boivin, Tim Horton, Eric Nesterenko.

New York Rangers—Lorne Worsley, Harry Howell, Dean Prentice, Neil Strain, Aldo Gaudin.

Boston Bruins—Jerry Toppazzini, Bob Armstrong, Warren Godfrey, Leo LaRine.

Detroit Red Wings—Jim Hay, Marcel Bonin, Lou Jankowski.

Chicago Black Hawks—Pete Conacher.

There have been several players come into the National Hockey League this season and play two or three games, but unless a player has played more than three games in the League he is not even considered an eligible rookie. A player may take part in three N.H.L. games for several seasons and still be eligible for the Calder Memorial Trophy when he finally plays more than three games in one season.

Five players who took part in four or more games this season and are not in the League right now, but are still eligible for the freshman award are Frank Sullivan of Toronto, Bill Folk and Glenn Hall of Detroit, and Andy Bathgate and Ian MacIntosh.

GROWING OLD

My mirror tells me I'm growing old. There are streaks of grey in my hair. My face is weathered by wind and sun. And marked with lines of care. My family tells me I'm slowing up. I can't dance the whole night through. I have to rest at midday, and then, I can't work like I used to do. My heart tells me that life is good. Though time passes swiftly on. There is contentment in every day. From struggles fought and won. It tells me too, each hour is sweet. No matter the count of years; That once the high noon of life is past. Age makes rare jewels of our tears. My heart fails not, for blessings true. Have gone with me all the way. Somehow I know though years may press. Friendship and love will stay.

REQUEST GRANTED

WINNIPEG.—A 29-year-old shop-breaker asked the magistrate in police court at St. Boniface if he could have nine months added to his 15-month sentence, so he could complete a wedding course at St. Monica's seminary. The magistrate agreed. The prisoner said he had started a wedding course but had been unable to finish it.

On The Side : E. V. Durling

Reef hear of a gangster of Scotch birth or descent? That's a rarity here. Not so in Scotland. Glasgow is suffering from a crime wave that has made it one of the most dangerous cities in the world. So many taxi drivers have been killed in holdups that they are now considered a bad insurance risk, refused by all insurance companies in Scotland but one. Some taxi drivers in Glasgow now have Arabian dogs riding with them at night for protection. Incidentally, so far no taxi skipper having a watch dog has yet been involved in a holdup.

A Woman's Privilege

Men are easiest to serve in restaurants. They know what they want to eat. Women do not. After much hesitation the females order something and then change their minds. That is why waiters and waitresses take the menu cards from women just as soon as they possibly can. Let them keep the card and they are certain to change their orders. When four or more women eat together they usually all order differently. They seem to feel it indicates a lack of originality to order the same thing as somebody else. Or so states a waiter of many years experience.

Popular Pup

What was the record for number of mourners attending the funeral of a dog? Over 400 persons attended the funeral of an Atlantic City, N.J., dog named Nightlife. This popular pup, a mongrel, was owned by a bartender. When his master was busy, Nightlife enjoyed making a tour of the town's night spots. He was a familiar figure at practically every night club in Atlantic City and much beloved by the employees and patrons of the after dark spots.

On the Phone

In some European cities telephone charges on local calls are figured on a time basis by a meter attachment. A system like that certainly make life difficult for women here, whose local phone calls average 30 minutes. Also, in Europe there are sections where a charge for a local call is split two ways between the caller and the person called. Imagine what would happen if that system were used here. Think of what a telephone bill a popular green-eyed, red-haired young woman would have. Also consider what it would do to the telephone bill of a man with two or three teen-age daughters.

Test For the Mumbler

How is your enunciation? Can you qualify as a telephone operator or radio news commentator? Your enunciation is in good working order if you can say the following sentence very rapidly, three times in succession without making a mistake: "Old city Ollie old auto." That is, if you can do likewise with the following sentence: "Soldier's shoulders shudder when shrill shells shriek."

Where There's a Will

Women are usually very slow dressers. However, they can arrange their hair, put on their make-up and don their attire in speedy fashion if they have to. As for example, a career girl claims she can spring out of bed and be all dressed and ready to start for the office in 4 minutes and 30 seconds.

Recipes Wanted For National Cook Book

REGINA.—How do you bake a Saskatoon pie? Who knows how to cook up a good dish of lake trout? Once it's good, what do you do with a duck?

These are some of the things this government tourist bureau would like to know. The point is, the Canadian Tourist Association is making up a book called the Canadian Cuisine Guide. It will consist of nothing but better ways to cook Canadian food, and the tourist bureau is anxious to have the favorite dishes of the province represented.

If Saskatchewan women would send their best recipes to the Tourist Bureau, Legislative Building, Regina, they would be entered in this national cook book.

TELEVISION FOR B.C.

VANCOUVER. Plans for an immediate start on a $1,000,000 television studio and transmitter in the Vancouver area were announced by the CBC. Kenneth Cable, CBC regional director, said he hopes the first television broadcast will be beamed out sometime this year.

FLOOD DAMAGE COSTLY

REGINA.—Rehabilitation payments covering flood damage in Saskatchewan last spring exceeded $150,000, reports John Proby provincial civil defence co-ordinator. The biggest share, more than $120,000, was to restore buildings damaged at East-end.

TRIBE OF PYGMIES

MANILA.—A Danish-born professor has located the main band of a newly-discovered tribe of pygmies leading a primitive bow-and-arrow existence, practicing polygamy and believing in good and bad fairies.

The peach is believed to have originated in China.

Keep Possession of the Ball

Possession of the ball is the best offense because you are able to score points. It is also the best defence because while your team has the ball, even if you aren't scoring baskets, the opposing team can't score! Every coach, every player, should always keep this fact in mind. Everything they do, practise or plan should be to improve the team's ability to keep possession of the ball. Every type of play or error that causes a team to lose possession of the ball should be eliminated entirely.

Here are the main reasons the average team loses possession of the ball so frequently, and thus loses games they could have won!

1. They pass blindly, hoping that somehow the player to whom the pass is made will be able to get it.
2. They shoot for baskets when actually the time is not right for a scoring attempt.

These two fundamental faults work to a team's disadvantage in this way. Passing blindly is the same as saying to your opponents, "Here, take the ball, we don't want it!" Avoid this by making sure you can complete the pass and make sure you pass accurately! Never call for a pass unless you are free. A good basketball player's first thought should be to figure out if he or someone else on his team is in the best position to take a pass. Another point to keep in mind is this—never shoot unless you have a really good opening and always take a look before you shoot to see if there is a teammate in a better shooting position.

Remember this, as an individual player on a team you have a duty to do everything possible to help keep possession of the ball because that is what wins games. Play your basketball with these suggestions and rules in mind and you'll become the type of player a good coach really likes to see on his squad!

A Hint for Goalkeepers!

When you study the career of any of the really great goalkeepers of all time you will discover that they all had one thing in common—they were very good with their hands. Yes, a pair of fast-moving, safe-catching hands is a goalkeeper's best weapon—mainly because he can cover so much territory with them and also because a shot that is caught in the hand does not rebound, giving the puck carrier another chance to score. To develop this skill and improve your goalkeeping you should spend 15 or 20 minutes every day, playing goal without your stick. You should try to stop every shot with your hands even if it is on the ice.

Eggs—Fine Food for Athletes

Eggs should be given an important place in the athlete's diet. They are easy to digest, are high in protein, which is of great importance to the athlete, and are an excellent food in every way. However, they should be boiled, cooked or poached—they should not be fried. Athletes should try to have 1 or 2 eggs for breakfast 4 to 5 times a week.
